History

The Rumsen Ohlone tribe inhabited the Monterey Peninsula thousands of years ago. They thrived on a diet of abundant mussels and abalone. Monterey was first glimpsed by European explorers in search of riches in the New World in 1542, but high winds prevented the expedition from landing. Don Sebastian Vizcaino was the first explorer to land in the area in 1602. He named the port in honor of Spain's Count of Monterey.

The first settlement was not established until 1770 by Father Junipero Serra and explorer Gaspar de Portola. Monterey served as the capital of California from 1777 to 1849, under both Spanish and Mexican rule. Monterey is home to many historical "firsts." The oldest stone building in California is the Royal Presidio Chapel, which was rebuilt in 1794 after a fire. It is also the state's oldest continuously operating parish. In addition, Monterey is home to California's first theater, publicly funded school, library, and printing press, where California's first newspaper, The Californian, was printed. During the Mexican American War in 1846, John D. Sloat first raised the American flag over the Custom House, claiming Monterey for the U.S.

A prolific whaling industry thrived in Monterey during the 1800s and drew many Japanese and Italian settlers. By 1920, the sardine industry began to grow, and Cannery Row was established. Nearly 250,000 tons of sardines were processed in Monterey each year. As overfishing and pollution corrupted the bay and city, the sardine industry began to dwindle and businesses closed or moved away. The city turned to tourism as a means to bolster the dwindling economy. Canning facilities were renovated to become restaurants, hotels, and other tourist attractions. Today, the city holds a reputation for preserving marine life, natural beauty, and environmental protection and awareness.

What to Do

Traveling into Monterey from the airport will require a taxi or rental car. Most attractions in the heart of the city are accessible by foot. If you plan to explore outlying areas, a rental car is the best option.

One of the best wildlife viewing areas in the western U.S. is about 21 miles north of the airport at Elkhorn Slough. A shallow body of water with large biodiversity, the slough is home to sea otters, harbor seals, sea lions, and more than 40 species of birds. Rent a kayak or take a three-hour kayak tour with the Kayak Connection. Curious sea otters often swim right up to kayakers. As our tour came to a close, we were delighted to glimpse several jellyfish floating by, so close we could almost touch them. To deviate from the ordinary, take the Bioluminescence Tour at night and witness the glowing flash of plankton on the dark water, tours $45-$65, 2370 Highway 1, Mon-Sun 9-5 p.m., 831-724-5692, www.KayakConnection.com.

If you have the need for speed, visit the Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca, an 11-turn, 2.2-mile road course about eight miles east of the airport. Throughout the year, you might see the Monterey Grand Prix, Ferrari Racing Days, Superbike World Championships, or MotoGP motorcycle races. The challenging course is best known for its "Corkscrew" blind turns that drop an equivalent of 5 1/2 stories. An interesting way to get intimate with the track is on one of their monthly twilight bicycle rides, $10. The raceway is at 1021 Salinas Hwy, 831-242-8201, www.MazdaRaceway.com.

Fisherman's Wharf offers an abundance of dining, shopping, and activities. Over a dozen restaurants serve delectable seafood dishes like the bay's famous clam chowder. Exciting day excursions leave directly from the wharf, making it easy to experience adventure and grab a bite to eat. You can explore the history of the wharf on a monthly Wharf Walk led by historian and author Tim Thomas, reservations required, held the first Sat of every month, 10 a.m.–noon, $15–$20, 831-521-3304. For more information on the wharf, visit www.MontereyWharf.com.

Travelers may view many types of marine life including birds and gray, humpback, or even blue whales on the 2 1/2- to 3-hour whale watching and nature tours operated by Princess Monterey Whale Watching. Experienced marine biologists narrate the tours, $45. Specialty tours include the shorter, 30-minute tour around Monterey Bay aboard the Little Mermaid glass bottom boat. The tour highlights points of interest and features an introduction to the Monterey Bay's Marine Sanctuary, adults $13, children $11, 96 Fisherman's Wharf No. 1, 831-372-2203 or 888-223-9153, www.MontereyWhaleWatching.com.

Once the center of commerce for the booming whaling and sardine industries, the mile-long Cannery Row was made famous in 1945 by the John Steinbeck novel of the same name. (City officials renamed the street from Ocean View Avenue to Cannery Row 13 years after Steinbeck's book was published.) Today, the street along the waterfront is the picture of tourism, with hotels, inns, restaurants, shopping, and tourist attractions, including the Monterey Bay Aquarium, www.CanneryRow.com.

The renowned Monterey Bay Aquarium at the west end of Cannery Row is on the site of the old Howden Cannery, the largest on Cannery Row and the last to close, in 1973 after the sardine fishery collapsed. The aquarium showcases the tremendous diversity of marine life off the California coast. Initially funded by David Packard of Hewlett-Packard, it has been operated by daughter and marine biologist Julie Packard since its opening in 1984, and she has grown it into the world-class research and educational institution it is today. Visit the giant kelp forest, one of the tallest aquarium exhibits in the world, with 28 feet of underwater kelp. At feeding time, watch divers offer fish to the leopard sharks. Check out the jellies exhibit, with several jellyfish species never exhibited there before adults

Come Fly with Us

As far as I'm concerned, Saturdays are for flying. On any given weekend, you're likely to find me at one of my favorite airports, hanging out around pilots and planes.

This year, I hope you'll join me and our fellow pilots on at least one Saturday as we kick off a series of AOPA Fly-Ins to be held at some of the most welcoming airports all across the country.

The plan is to get out to the airport, meet other pilots, and have fun!

We got the idea from listening to AOPA members who told us they wanted to connect with one another and their association, and this is a fun, easy way to do that.

We'll start every fly-in with a traditional pancake breakfast and pilot town hall. I'll talk a little about the biggest issues affecting general aviation and what AOPA is doing about them, then I'll take lots of questions so we can have a meaningful discussion about the issues that are most important to you.

That sounds serious, but really it's about enjoying our freedom to fly. So headquarters. It's going to be a celebration not only of all things GA, but also of AOPA's 75th anniversary.

We want you to come home to your association headquarters and get real insight into what it means to share in the long tradition of AOPA membership. But most of all, I want all of us to have the chance to experience the sense of community that makes being part of GA so great.

Even if you can't make it to Frederick, we've got events happening all year long. Here's the schedule:

- Texas: San Marcos Municipal Airport (HYI), April 26
- Indiana: Indianapolis Regional Airport (MQJ), May 31
- Massachusetts: Plymouth Airport (PYM), July 12
- Washington: Spokane Felts Field (SFF), August 16
- California: Chino Airport (CNO), September 20
- Maryland: Frederick Municipal Airport (FDK), October 4
- Georgia: Malcolm McKinnon Airport (SSI), November 8

For more details on any of these fly-ins, please visit us on the Monterey Bay Aquarium houses a giant Pacific octopus and has plans for a new exhibit in April: "Tentacles: The Astounding Lives of Octopuses, Squid, and Cuttlefishes"; Walk under a kelp canopy in the Splash Zone galleries; Ivy, a southern sea otter, delights visitors.

$40, children $25, seniors and students $35, open 10 a.m. - 6 p.m., 886 Cannery Row, 851-648-4800, www.MontereyBayAquarium.org.

The wide range of sea life in Monterey Bay makes it a perfect spot for scuba diving, and Breakwater Cove is a premiere dive site. Glenn's II Aquarius Dive Shop offers PADI certified dive courses with a flexible training schedule. The Discover Scuba Diving course offers visitors a taste of underwater life while under the supervision of an instructor (remember not to fly for at least 24 hours after a dive), $175 includes equipment, call for appointment, 32 Cannery Row, 851-375-6605, www.Aquarius2.com.

To extend your visit beyond Monterey, drive south of Cannery Row to the adjacent city of Pacific Grove. Pacific Grove offers beautiful, yet mostly deserted, beaches, many with tidepools and dramatic rock formations that are perfect for walking. Look for exquisite old homes across the street from the beaches, two of which have been turned into highly praised B&Bs that are booked out months in advance (The Green Gables Inn and House of Seven Gables). At the western tip of the Monterey Peninsula, the Point Pinos Lighthouse is the perfect location to take in spectacular sunset and picturesque ocean views. Built in 1855, it is the oldest continuously operating lighthouse on the West Coast, suggested donation $1-$2, open Mon, Thu, & Fri-Sun 1-4 p.m., 165 Forest Ave., 851-648-3176, www.PointPinos.org.

One of the most scenic drives in the world, 17-Mile Drive at Pebble Beach, loops around the stunning beaches of Pacific Grove and Pebble Beach through the Del Monte Forest south of Monterey. Fabulous estate homes are sprinkled along the way. While there, stop in and play a legendary round of golf at one of Pebble Beach's fine golf courses. Pebble Beach features four par-72 golf courses and a nine-hole course. One of the most famous golf courses in the world, Pebble Beach Golf Links has hosted the U.S. Open five times, 9 holes $30, 18 holes $110-$495. Another not-to-be-missed experience is an evening at the Inn at Spanish Bay. Sit on the terrace and watch the sun kiss the Pacific Ocean as you sip a glass of local wine and listen to the famous Scottish bagpiper "put the golf course to sleep." Pebble Beach offers three luxury hotels for guests who want to stay close to the links: the Lodge at Pebble Beach, the Inn at Spanish Bay, and Casa Palmero at Pebble Beach. For golf rates and hotel reservations call 800-654-9500. An extensive list of hotels, restaurants, golf course, fitness centers, and shops in Pebble Beach with local phone numbers is at www.PebbleBeach.com.

The 17-Mile Drive culminates at the charming sea town of Carmel-by-the-Sea, noted for its European influences and pristine white sand beaches. Rated one of the top ten destinations in the U.S. by Conde Nast Traveler, it is often called the Hamptons of the West Coast. Carmel is home to shops, art galleries, vegan eateries, and other restaurants; it has long been a beacon for artists and others with a creative side. The Sunset Center in Carmel-by-the-Sea is a performing arts center that features events from symphony to rock and roll. The intimate 700-seat auditorium offers programs that include the annual Christmas performance of the Nutcracker by Monterey Bay Dancekids, Carmel Bach Festival, Tao: The Art of the Drum, and national star performances by Los Lonely Boys and John Lithgow. The Sunset Center is also home to the renowned Carmel Art & Film Festival and the Carmel Author's and Ideas Festival, 851-620-2048. For more information on Carmel, visit www.CarmelCalifornia.com.
